The Study in Germany blog

The Study in Germany blog (www.study-in.de/blog) is part of the “Study in Germany – Land of Ideas” campaign that the DAAD is using to promote Germany as an attractive place to study. The aim of the campaign is to raise awareness of Germany as an excellent location for higher education studies and to boost the number of highly qualified foreign students at German universities. The target group is young foreign students from all over the world. The website www.study-in.de is funded by the Federal Ministry of Education and Research (BMBF) and is closely linked to the Information for Foreigners section of the DAAD website at www.daad.de.

In this context, I declare the following:

I have been informed that the DAAD (Deutscher Akademischer Austauschdienst e.V., Kennedyallee 50, 53175 Bonn, Germany) has commissioned foreign students in Germany to write texts for the Study in Germany blog. In these posts, bloggers report on their academic studies and life in Germany. I hereby consent that photographic images of me may be copied, released and displayed in modified or unmodified form in whole or in part. In addition, the DAAD or those authorised by the DAAD may use the pictures produced without any limitation on time, location or content to promote Germany as an attractive location for higher education studies and research.
